

I think that ownership of television stations in a single market should be limited to no more than one per owner. I think that ownership of radio stations in a single market should be limited to no more than one in a small market and no more than two in a larger market. I think all the existing television networks must remain under separate ownership. I think it greatly benefits the public to have television and radio station ownership as broad as possible. The airways are owned by the public and should not be operated to the benefit of a few very large media companies.
